

It is my understanding that the FCC is considering giving LPFM stations priority over translator services using the same frequency. I would like to let you know that I am opposed to this possibility. I currently listen to K-LOVE radio programming which utilizes FM Translators. I live in an area that is between several larger radio markets, without good reception for family-friendly programming. The ability to have K-LOVE broadcasting in my home area is a constant source of enjoyment. Since I live in a small community, there is not a "replacement" for the K-LOVE station if the frequency usage was displaced. The K-LOVE programming is a source of encouragement for the people in my community - which is not readily accessible unless you travel a good distance. Please do not disrupt current the broadcast availability of the K-LOVE station in my area.

Thank You.
